C-USEPA-Contaminated Sediment Strategic Planning, MI-FY17

Description

The Contaminated Sediment Strategic Plan (CSSP) encompasses all Federal navigation channels and is used throughout all 31 U.S. Great Lakes Areas of Concern (AOCs). The program allows the Corps to identify opportunities for collaborative efforts to de-list AOCs. Many of the Beneficial Use Impairments in AOCs relate to the presence of contaminants in the sediments. The CSSP identifies contaminant “hot spots” for removal using the Corps’ navigation authorities. Removal of contaminated sediments from Areas of Concern is one of the primary measures of success in the Great Lakes Restoration Initiative (GLRI) Action Plan. The combined removal of contaminated sediments under U.S. Army Corps of Engineers (USACE) navigation authority and U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Legacy Act can deliver a more complete cleanup of Areas of Concern than by either action alone. Integration of USACE and EPA sediment removal actions will provide significant benefits to navigation, reducing the long-term dredging needs and costs at Federal projects.
